

Why servicing makes Sense - and can save You money

It makes sense to service your car or gas boiler , so why not service your computer too?

A computer virus, spy-ware, and the demands of running newer software are just some of the things that can take their toll on your computer.

If you rely on your computers, the last thing you need is to be hit by a problem - and then face a big bill to sort it out. That's why a service contract from Lee's PC Repairs is such a good and cost-effective idea.

For as little as £20 a month per computer, Lee's PC Repairs service each computer once every six months. This helps ensure everything runs smoothly and that small problems are resolved quickly before they develop into something more serious - and costly.

Plus, with a Lee's PC Repairs service contract, you also benefit from the Lee's PC Repairs Helpdesk with phone support and remote support too.

So why take chances with your computers when you can take out a Lee's PC Repairs service contract instead?
